GOEBEL'S DECEPTION.

Below is an extract from a letter of Mr. C. M. Browning to his parents in this city:

Rox Jose, Cal., August 28, 1899.

"When writing last you may have thought me somewhat disappointed in California, but not so. True, I didn't think it more than the usual, well-prospered, average country, but I am not disappointed. I do not think so. Plain, sober facts easily pass California for the most part of wonderful sections, chiefly, however, as regards climate and what directly comes of it. Up to date it is essentially an agricultural and horticultural country, with mining a second best interest, and manufacturing on a large scale a necessity of the early future."

In the matter of natural products, one can have his reasonable wants supplied here almost for the asking. It certainly requires less effort to obtain the necessities of life here than elsewhere in this continent. The Yankee found it thus upon the conquest from Mexico fifty years ago, and for years has been merely drilled, the keen edge wearing from his energies and "sufficient for the day" becoming a habit of life. So far the ideal of the farmer characterizes the people that, incredible as it may seem, up to within a few years, with all the abundance in actual wealth, the food supply of a kind was shipped from transmountain regions. But with rapidly increasing population and the quickening influence of growing capital, the old order is passing away, and the people are now deriving their food supply from her own resources, but, with a wholesome margin for increase and advance upon her wheat, fruit and multiple products of her soil.

As to wheat, I wish some of our Mass country farmers could see the fields and witness the harvesting here. For miles and miles you see nothing but wheat. Presently you have a wheat field of 25,000 acres. By the aid of machinery this is harvested by 50 men, but about 250 mules. On these large ranches they cut, thresh and sack the wheat all at once and as they drive along. It takes eight, ten and twelve hours to pull these thousands and six men to run them, as you'll see by the cuts herewith included. The grain is put up in sacks of 30 pounds each, much like the coffee sack of the sack they use in the South for cotton seed here. In the cut you will observe ten men drawing three wagons loaded and loaded with wheat. My first impulse was to reason "Why not take six horses, two to a wagon, and do the hauling," would be the ideal here, and a traveling man has been seen with two drivers, and saw the point.

While on this "elevated line" I too may be permitted to speak of fruits and flowers, without which California letter is about the reading. Thoreau has told you all about these and I cheerfully endorse his most fertile utterances. There is absolutely no limit to size and quantity of fruit grown here, and, while I am not yet within the fruit belt, have seen peaches, plums, pears, grapes, etc., till sick of the sight, taste and smell thereof. As to flowers, enough that furbies, geraniums and roses bid you good morning at second and third story windows, and palms, vines, etc., in bewildering variety, beggar description. And yet they tell me that I see the country at its most unimpressive season,—that the mountain sides, now barren as the middle of Third street in Maysville, when you are piling on coal in mid-winter be aglow with green, gold and every color of the rainbow.

The climate too has been written here, but in good word and style. I can add nothing thereon nor rightly subtract anything therefrom. One would be "too hard to please" if not flatter his ideal here, and a traveling man has opportunities given to few. I have struck the right, temperate, moist and not too hot, not too cold, not too dry, not too wet, not too far from the sea, and within a distance of fifty miles, calling for winter clothes and summer underwear at alternate stations and then summer dresses and winter dresses to the matter of climate at all. But I always sleep under a blanket and that puts me in good shape for whatever may befall next day.

And I like the people; impossible not to; frank, generous and hospitable as are with their peculiarities of the Pacific slope, charming as difficult to describe. But, why was there ever a man to say that the people are miserable slaves, as intimated in the beginning of this letter. This is a commercial traveler, is well said a critic.

FINE COUNTRY

Interesting Description of California By a Maysville Traveling Man.

THE CLIMATE AND THE PEOPLE

Below is an extract from a letter of Mr. C. M. Browning to his parents in this city:

Rox Jose, Cal., August 28, 1899.

"When writing last you may have thought me somewhat disappointed in California, but not so. True, I didn't think it more than the usual, well-prospered, average country, but I am not disappointed. I do not think so. Plain, sober facts easily pass California for the most part of wonderful sections, chiefly, however, as regards climate and what directly comes of it. Up to date it is essentially an agricultural and horticultural country, with mining a second best interest, and manufacturing on a large scale a necessity of the early future."

In the matter of natural products, one can have his reasonable wants supplied here almost for the asking. It certainly requires less effort to obtain the necessities of life here than elsewhere in this continent. The Yankee found it thus upon the conquest from Mexico fifty years ago, and for years has been merely drilled, the keen edge wearing from his energies and "sufficient for the day" becoming a habit of life. So far the ideal of the farmer characterizes the people that, incredible as it may seem, up to within a few years, with all the abundance in actual wealth, the food supply of a kind was shipped from transmountain regions. But with rapidly increasing population and the quickening influence of growing capital, the old order is passing away, and the people are now deriving their food supply from her own resources, but, with a wholesome margin for increase and advance upon her wheat, fruit and multiple products of her soil.

As to wheat, I wish some of our Mass country farmers could see the fields and witness the harvesting here. For miles and miles you see nothing but wheat. Presently you have a wheat field of 25,000 acres. By the aid of machinery this is harvested by 50 men, but about 250 mules. On these large ranches they cut, thresh and sack the wheat all at once and as they drive along. It takes eight, ten and twelve hours to pull these thousands and six men to run them, as you'll see by the cuts herewith included. The grain is put up in sacks of 30 pounds each, much like the coffee sack of the sack they use in the South for cotton seed here. In the cut you will observe ten men drawing three wagons loaded and loaded with wheat. My first impulse was to reason "Why not take six horses, two to a wagon, and do the hauling," would be the ideal here, and a traveling man has been seen with two drivers, and saw the point.

While on this "elevated line" I too may be permitted to speak of fruits and flowers, without which California letter is about the reading. Thoreau has told you all about these and I cheerfully endorse his most fertile utterances. There is absolutely no limit to size and quantity of fruit grown here, and, while I am not yet within the fruit belt, have seen peaches, plums, pears, grapes, etc., till sick of the sight, taste and smell thereof. As to flowers, enough that furbies, geraniums and roses bid you good morning at second and third story windows, and palms, vines, etc., in bewildering variety, beggar description. And yet they tell me that I see the country at its most unimpressive season,—that the mountain sides, now barren as the middle of Third street in Maysville, when you are piling on coal in mid-winter be aglow with green, gold and every color of the rainbow.

The climate too has been written here, but in good word and style. I can add nothing thereon nor rightly subtract anything therefrom. One would be "too hard to please" if not flatter his ideal here, and a traveling man has opportunities given to few. I have struck the right, temperate, moist and not too hot, not too cold, not too dry, not too wet, not too far from the sea, and within a distance of fifty miles, calling for winter clothes and summer underwear at alternate stations and then summer dresses and winter dresses to the matter of climate at all. But I always sleep under a blanket and that puts me in good shape for whatever may befall next day.

And I like the people; impossible not to; frank, generous and hospitable as are with their peculiarities of the Pacific slope, charming as difficult to describe. But, why was there ever a man to say that the people are miserable slaves, as intimated in the beginning of this letter. This is a commercial traveler, is well said a critic.

The expense of living in California is, as elsewhere, "very relative," much as you please. It is not regarded as excessive, and provisions composed largely of fruits and vegetables are cheap. Fish are abundant, unsurpassed in quality and low in price. Meats of whatever kind are high; eggs likewise, but asprising the reader please to ask; chickens, for the framework for such cream-nested and lugs to match, 50 to 75 c. each; cost to cook at $2.50 per ton. By the way, the man who can invent a chicken that will ripen into market size can become a millionaire here within a few years. The climate or something is fatal to poultry, and they are valued accordingly. To steal a mule may be pardoned, if the thief be popular; to steal a chicken is speedy death, transportation or life-long imprisonment.

Coming to actual luxuries like ice and doctors figures rule high. The average man can not buy ice for family use, and "a first-class hotel, even in the larger cities, which supplies it to guests. Being a tourist in 'Priso I bought a nickel's worth of ice and started for my room. The paper wrapper was innocent of moisture at the fourth floor.

As to doctors and their methods—when I get sick here I shall soon for the undertaker, give him all I have to bury me, and die. Should I get the doctor first he'll take my life; if I unfortunately get well, I'll be to starve; if I die I will be indebted to charity for a grave. Five dollars for a day visit, ten dollars for night, was a valued experience to me.

There are other bad things out here besides doctors and their methods—such as the population. Now you have both sides of it.

If you write at once, will catch me at Monterey, Cal., care of Hotel Del Monte.

No Guess Work.

When a person comes here for Eye Glasses we don't take up the first pair of ready made ones we find and say, "Here are the very ones that will suit your eyes." That would be guess work. Instead we give the eyes a careful examination, finding out just what lenses are needed, and then making them, to charge for examination.

Black Dress Goods!

We doubt if you ever saw them cheaper than this. They couldn't be lower, unless the bottom fell out of the whole dress goods market, and that's happened, nor is it likely to happen again. Try our stock; we cannot regularly sell Mohair Warp cloth as cheap as $50. So far as we know there isn't any other store that sells it at less than 60c. But twenty-five pieces have just come to us to tell!

AT 29c.

Perfect black, perfect in weave and finish. To tell the story of the deal would simply bring trouble on the maker from other stores, so never mind it. Don't delay. May be enough for a morning. May be enough for a day. Brilliant, full black, colored with dependable dye that leaves the fabric soft and unharmed. Absolutely the handsomest Jacquards we have ever offered for the money. This statement is based on actual conditions—we have time for liberality, not in our business. Of course you know what Jacquards are—a smooth, dull black surface with brilliant black figures.

Regained His Sweetheart Through

Last winter in Boston, Mass. two young people who were engaged to be married had a lover's quarrel and he came estranged. It looked very much like a serious affair, for all the attempts of their friends to reconcile them had been futile, when one evening in the early part of May they both happened to be at the Columbia Theater, where Mr. Kelly was playing Casey's Troubles, and he with his sweetheart with a friend. They became so interested and laughed so heartily, glancing at each other as they did, that they forgot their trouble and before the evening was over had become lovers again. Their wedding took place last June, and as the old lady said, "they were happy ever after."

ABSTRACT COMPLETE.

All Preliminary Arrangements for the Dreyfus Reception Made Except Line of March.

SECRETARY GAGE CAN NOT ATTEND.

None of the Members of the Cabinet Has Accepted Invitations to Participate in the Ceremonies.

They Answer That Public Engagements Prevent It. Col. Henry H. Adams Will Be Adjutant General to Gen. Howard in Parade.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—With the exception of a settlement as to the line of march for the land parade the preliminary arrangements for the Dreyfus reception ceremonies are about complete. The line of march will be agreed upon Friday.

None of the members of the president's cabinet has accepted the invitation of the city to participate in the reception ceremonies. Lyman J. Gage, has declined, pleading pressure of business, and refusals were received Thursday from the postmaster general, the secretary of state and the secretary of war.

Mr. Smith wrote, regretting that "public engagements at the capital prevent acceptance."

Mr. Hay said: "I deeply regret that imperative official engagements put it out of my power to accept this courteous invitation."

Mr. Root, in his letter, said: "The secretary of war has accepted the invitation of the city to participate in the reception ceremonies."

The list of governors of states who will attend the reception is growing. The governors of North Carolina, West Virginia and Connecticut have written giving details as to the military force that they will accompany them.

Maj. Gen. Roe has received notice Thursday from Gen. O. O. Howard that Col. Henry H. Adams has been appointed adjutant general to Gen. Howard for the Dreyfus parade, and that Col. Adams will accompany to the organization of the G. A. R. for the parade.

WILL NOT MIDDLE.

The Administration Will Take No Action in Dreyfus Affair Unless the Interests of United States are Involved.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President McKinley is daily receiving letters, petitions and resolutions from various parts of the country urging his mediation in behalf of Dreyfus and suggesting that he tender his good offices in the pending dispute between Great Britain and the Transvaal. There have come in such volume that there has not been an acknowledgment in many cases.

All these communications are being turned over to the state department as they arrive. The administration will take no action, holding that until the interests of the United States or the rights of her citizens are involved it is not within the province of this country to meddle in the domestic or foreign affairs of other countries.

ESTERHAZY CHALLENGED.

F. M. Ayer, of South Carolina, Offers to Meet Him in the Field of Honor in Behalf of Capt. Dreyfus.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 15.—The following challenge to mortal combat was cabled Thursday morning to Count Ferdinand Wassin Esterhazy at his address in London:

Sir—Believing you to be answerable for the misery and humiliation of Capt. Dreyfus, of the French army, and he, Capt. Dreyfus, not being able to call on you personally for satisfaction, I, as an American free born, loving liberty, do volunteer in my own right to meet you on the field of honor in behalf of Capt. Dreyfus at any time and place agreeable to you. Signed, Paul E. Ayer, Anderson, S. C.

Ayer is a son of the late Gen. Ayer, of the confederate army, and was a captain in the 1st South Carolina volunteers in the Spanish war.

Number of Vessels in Our Navy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The navigation bureau of the navy Thursday issued a list of vessels of the United States navy of all kinds, making the surprising showing of 121 craft. This includes many small vessels and craft captured in Cuba and the Philippines, but the showing is, nevertheless, remarkable in comparison with the naval list of two years ago.

Relieved of His Post.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Major James W. Pope has been relieved as chief quartermaster at Manila, his place being taken by Maj. Crosby P. Miller.

MEDALS OF HONOR

Four Soldiers of the Seventeenth Infantry Given a Testimonial by the War Department.

DISTINGUISHED BRAVERY IN BATTLE.

During the Exercises the Band Played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the Regiment Was Reviewed.

Charges of Corruption Made Against the American Officials in Manila by a Clerk Under the Auditor of Public Accounts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Information has been received at the war department that four soldiers of the 17th infantry were given a testimonial of the esteem in which their country holds its heroes at San Fernando, Luzon, August 4. The occasion was the presentation to Sergt. Bruno Wende, Sergt. U. G. Baur, Corporal G. C. Burd and Artificer Thomas J. Graham, all of Company C, of that regiment, of medals of honor awarded them by President McKinley for distinguished bravery in battle at El Canoy, Santiago July 1, in assisting in the rescue of wounded men in front of the line under a heavy fire from the enemy. Maj. Gen. MacArthur and Brig. Gen. Watson were present. Col. W. J. Powell pinned the bronze stars on the coats of the four soldiers and congratulated each of them. During the exercises the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the regiment was in review before Gen. MacArthur.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 15.—Napoleon E. Guyot, late private of Company G, 1st Colorado volunteers, who during the last three months of 1898 served as a clerk under Maj. Kilbourne and later Lieut. Col. Potter, auditor of public accounts, Manila, published Thursday evening a signed statement in which the gravest charges of corruption are made against the American officials in Manila. He says an examination of the vouchers forwarded to Washington will show that exorbitant prices are paid for the American supplies placed in Manila; that vast quantities of high class wines and other supplies have been purchased ostensibly for the Spanish hospitals, while in the American hospitals only the coarsest supplies are furnished. He says court-martials of private soldiers they would result in the exposure of official rascality. The robberies, he asserts, will aggregate an enormous sum.

ISLAND OF SAMAR.

The Natives Are Praying for the Speedy Arrival of the Americans—Will Welcome the American Flag.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Mail advices received at the war department from Manila state that the natives of the island of Samar are praying for the speedy arrival of the Americans, and will welcome the hoisting of the American flag. It is said that as a result of the forcible collection of taxes by the emissaries of the insurgents who take all they have got, the natives are in state of semi-anarchy. They have no faith in the Tagalos, and they earnestly desire American protection.

An insurgent leader, Gen. Lucban, has bolted to Japan, taking with him $20,000 collected by him for the insurgents. The agents of the insurgents endeavor to force the natives to join their forces, which they will not do. The condition in the island, it is asserted, is rapidly approaching riot and anarchy, and the heavy and continued drag upon them in the form of tribute exasperates them and they, the letter says, threaten desperate resistance if it continues.

THEY PROTEST.

The Free Importation of Coffee From Porto Rico to Cuba Causes a Bad Impression Among Planters.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Sept. 15.—The measure declaring free importation of coffee from Porto Rico to Cuba has caused a bad impression in the city and province of Santiago. The planters held a meeting Wednesday, and after a prolonged discussion agreed to cable Senor Quesada in Washington a request to present a protest to President McKinley. They declare that such a regulation will kill the Cuban coffee industry and leave thousands penniless.

The Santiago chamber of commerce, at its meeting Thursday, adopted a resolution of protest.

Struck by a Hurricane.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., Sept. 15.—Advices received at St. Kitts from the island of Anguilla, one of the British West Indian islands, a local group, say that a hurricane during the night of September 8 destroyed 300 houses and rendered 800 people homeless. There was considerable loss of property and much damage at St. Martin.

Frank McConnell Ennobled.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Police Judge Conlan Thursday ennobled Frank McConnell, the pugilist, who some time ago killed Jim Francy in a boxing contest before the National Athletic club. Judge Conlan held the contest was held under the provisions of the law. The case against the club managers, seconds, etc., was also ordered dismissed.

Imperial William Declares Dreyfus Guilty.

KENNES, Sept. 15.—Capt. De Verdier was sent by Col. Jonaux to the Emperor of Germany to ask him if Dreyfus was guilty. The Kaiser said: "He is guilty. I give my word to Gallifet."

Dreyfus Will Be Pardoned September 19.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The Matin morning asserts that the cabinet has agreed to pardon Dreyfus and that the decree will be signed September 19. Many of the provincial papers publish articles insisting on the granting of a pardon.

THE CONFERENCE.

Govs. Pingree, Atkinson, Scofield and Stanley Given Seats Upon the Stage.

SEVERAL INTERESTING PAPERS READ.

Trusts and Combines, If Conducted on a Strict Business Competitive System, a Blessing Says Hanley.

Legislation Can Not Control It Without Striking at the Root—Government to Own All Means of Transportation and Utility.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The afternoon session of the trust conference was devoted to the papers on the "Relation of agriculture to trusts." Dudley Wooten acted as chairman for the session, but presided over delegations even thinner than they were during the forenoon. W. Burke Cochran was missed from the ranks of the New Yorkers, but these gentlemen asserted that he had not forsaken the conference.

Gov. Pingree, of Michigan, together with Gov. Atkinson, of West Virginia; Gov. Schofield, of Wisconsin, and Gov. Stanley, of Kansas, upon the invitation of the chairman took seats on the stage.

Samuel H. Greeley, of the Chicago board of trade, spoke on "The protection of American grain markets from railroad and warehouse monopoly." He was followed by J. C. Hanley, of St. Paul, delegate from the National Grange, Alliance and Union, Aaron Jones, of South Bend, Ind., master of the National Grange, declared that the farmer was opposed to no other branch of industry, including the trust. The last speaker of the afternoon was Maj. Henry H. Tucker, of New York, editor of an anarchist paper. He gave his view of trusts from the point of view of the anarchist.

At the close of an opportunity for discussion was offered, but a motion to adjourn was overwhelmingly favored and was carried. J. C. Hanley, of St. Paul, spoke on foreign markets and American shipping and the effect and influence of these on agriculture.

"Trusts and combines," said he, "if conducted on a strict business competitive system, would be a blessing rather than a curse, but the fact of many of these gigantic monopolies as conducted at present are a menace to the existence and stability of our nation. I am convinced that legislation can not control this evil without striking at the root of it, and that the government own and control all means of transportation and public utility."

The course of his speech Aaron Jones said: "It occurs to me that the first step in remedial legislation is to pass a well considered anti-trust law by the congress of the United States, defining the powers limiting the privileges of these corporations, and supplement this law by enactments of the several state legislatures to apply to such phases as could not be reached by the federal law."

Maj. Tucker, at the close of his speech, said: "Free access to the world of matter, abolishing land monopoly; free access to the world of mind, abolishing idea monopoly; free access to a free and untrammelled market, abolishing tariff monopoly and money monopoly—these are the three that shall be added unto you. For liberty is the remedy of every social evil, and to liberty must the world look at least for any enduring guarantee of social order."

It was resolved, That it is with the greatest pleasure that we have everywhere witnessed a spirit of fraternity among the survivors of the war with Mexico.

EXPORT EXPOSITION.

President McKinley Presided at the Button and Needle Exposition in the Philadelphia Show Started.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—The National Export exposition was opened Thursday afternoon with appropriate exercises.

The benediction was pronounced by Archbishop Ryan, of this city, and at its conclusion, at 3:15 o'clock, a telegraph instrument was moved to the front of the stage and communication was effected with the white house, at Washington. First Vice President Foulke informed President McKinley over the wire that the exposition was ready for him to declare open.

The president immediately sent the following message:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14, 1898. To Dr. W. P. E. Director General National Export Exposition, Philadelphia. The opening of the National export exposition marks another important and most gratifying advance in the extension of our trade and commerce and the promotion of more cordial relations between our people and those of other countries. Accept for yourself and your associates my hearty congratulations and best wishes for the success of your enterprise and the good results of success and influence of this undertaking. (Signed) WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

This message was read by Vice President Foulke, after which he announced that President McKinley, who was the momentary visitor, had taken the house for the purpose, would touch the telegraph instrument communicating with the instrument upon the stage, thus signify his participation in the exercises. This was done, and in the monetary alliance the click of the instrument was heard at a considerable distance from the stage.

This concluded the exercises and the auditorium was thrown open to the public, and the prominent guests in the suite of the buildings, grounds and exhibits.

While the exposition is not ready in every detail, the condition of the big show at present is fully up to the expectation of the management. There was considerable delay in getting some of the exhibits in place, but it is expected all will have been put in position by the time a week has elapsed. There was a large crowd at the exposition Thursday night. The admissions for the day and night aggregated 25,000.

THE MEXICAN VETERANS.

The National Association Ended Its Meeting at Indianapolis Tuesday—Officers Elected for Ensuing Year.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 15.—The concluding meeting of the National Association of Mexican War Veterans was held Thursday forenoon in the city of Indianapolis. Resolutions were adopted that "although again disappointed in the action of congress in its failure to pass laws increasing pensions to the survivors of the war with Mexico, we still hope our representatives in congress will at an early day adopt a just and liberal pension to the survivors and the widows of those who have died, who claim these veterans of the war with Mexico have upon this country, stand on ground so peculiar in respect to the origin and circumstances in which they originated, so fairly entitle them to the grateful consideration of congress on their own merits."

It was resolved, That it is with the greatest pleasure that we have everywhere witnessed a spirit of fraternity among the survivors of the war with Mexico.

Cincinnati was almost unanimously selected for the meeting place next year.
